v.5/10/12
Because we will be assessing student learning outcomes across multiple core courses, assessments assigned in your course must include assessments of the core competencies. For each competency checked above, indicate the specific course assignment(s) which, when completed by students, will provide evidence of the competency. Provide detailed information, such as copies of the paper or project assignment, copies of individual test items, etc. A single assignment may be used to provide data for multiple competencies.

Critical Thinking:
Students will compose a 4 page essay that requires them to address the historical and social context of an object or arch/architecture-related text. They are required to support their inferences using scholarly sources. The research and writing process will elicit critical thinking in the formation and marshaling of the argument.

Communication Skills:
In the same four page paper, students will demonstrate their ability to communicate effectively.

Empirical & Quantitative Skills:

Teamwork:
Through participation in peer review writing groups, the students will learn and practice the art of constructive criticism in a group setting. The peer review files with student and professor comments for one of the sessions will be downloaded and available for assessment on Google Docs.

Social Responsibility:
In the same four page paper listed for Critical Thinking, students will explore issues of social responsibility through the examination of the social function of the art object or text.

Personal Responsibility:

Inclusion in the core is contingent upon the course being offered and taught at least once every other academic year. Courses will be reviewed for renewal every 5 years.

The department understands that instructors will be expected to provide student work and to participate in university-wide assessments of student work. This could include, but may not be limited to, designing instruments such as rubrics, and scoring work by students in this or other courses. In addition, instructors of core courses may be asked to include brief assessment activities in their course.

v.5/10/12
Dept. Signature: Troy Benniefield for Rex
This course surveys the art and civilization of the Maya, the Aztecs, and their predecessors from 1800 B.C. to the present. In addition to large scale art and architecture, we will examine the invention of writing, funerary ceramics, and the role of art as both religious expression and political act.

Learning Outcomes: Upon completing this course you should be able to: 1) exhibit your awareness of the historical, sociological, cultural, and aesthetic context of works in Pre-Columbian art through examinations and essays, and 2) demonstrate awareness of the scope and variety of Pre-Columbian art through examinations. For this Writing in the Disciplines course, the writing assignments will teach students to use the shared writing conventions, practices and methods of citation of the discipline of art history.

Attendance is integral to success in this class. The majority of testable material will be treated in class, with your readings serving as the source for the larger context.

Attendance at Writing Studio Sessions is mandatory. You will be given lecture credit for attending these sessions, and your progress there will count in your all-important paper grade. Lates are not acceptable. Rare exceptions will be made only for documented major medical emergencies.

The course schedule may be found in the calendar and readings schedule in the web site. Here are all the due dates, class topics, and everything else you need to succeed.

Required Text: Michael Coe and Rex Koontz, Mexico (6th edition). Recommended: Dennis Tedlock, Popol Vuh (revised edition) - available at most bookstores or online. Other reading assignments will be found in the week-by-week course schedule. The great majority of these are downloadable.

Course Requirements
A stepped series of essays on Ancient Mesoamerican art or architecture with bibliography (60%); Participation in your group’s Writing Studios and paper critiques (7.5%); 2 exams (22.5% total) and a number of in-class exams (pop tests, number TBD, 10% total) on the material covered in classes and readings. The essay is more than half your grade. You will be getting plenty of help during the writing process, but it is up to you to take advantage of this.
